16th Sunday in Ordinary Time

If you grew up in a family with another sibling, it is likely that at some point you or a brother or sister went to mom or dad and said something like, "Tell [put your sibling's name here] to share [toy, cake, cookie, TV-fill in the blank]." We've all done it, even if we're an only child and used the line on a school teacher or aunt or uncle when playing with a cousin. Most of us have an innate sense of fairness and justice. We want to be treated equitably. We grow up with aphorisms like "Fair is fair," "Take turns," and "Play by the rules." We appeal to authority (Mom, Dad, teacher, referee, judge) when we think we're being taken advantage of. Our expectation is that justice will prevail.

IS greater
justice

Civil trials often involve that quest for justice. An aggrieved party seeks an equitable outcome through a judgment against an offender. But justice alone does not guarantee solace. How many times have we heard in the news about a plaintiff who explains that it was not the court judgment that brought peace and resolution. Inevitably, they explain how they have found peace when they were able to bring themselves to forgive the offender. Many describe how the anger or pain in their hearts continued to interfere with their lives until they could put it aside by being reconciled.

The words of Jesus in the Gospel that "one's life does not consist of possessions" reflect this understanding. While compensatory and punitive damages help relieve an injustice, they do not resolve a situation completely. Only movement toward forgiveness and reconciliation can bring that about. It is not easy to do that, but our Christian experience acknowledges that it can be done, even if it takes years to accomplish. The hope is that we will be "rich in what matters to God" (Lk 12:21).

School News Did you know that our academic program is designed to stimulate curiosity and enhance problem-solving abilities? We have two new additions to enhance our curriculum this year! The teachers have been working hard to implement our Lucy Calkins writing program, which focuses on the writing workshop approach to written communication. The success of our Saxon Math program has inspired the teachers to adopt the Saxon Phonics program in grades K-2. This program helps students to maximize phonetic ability for reading, spelling, and writing! All of our programs are designed to encourage individual and personal growth while simultaneously maximizing student success. Our academic atmosphere promotes caring and cooperative relationships and helps children grow in confidence and trust. Children are encouraged to become risk-takers and lifelong learners in an environment where doing the right thing and leading a Christian life are valued. Call for a tour to see just how affordable a St. Peter education can be! 551-8383
